

Write an introduction on yourself

My name is Bharat Singh, and I hold a Bachelor of Engineering degree in Information Technology from Thane. During my academic journey, I cultivated a strong foundation in programming, and software development.

I gained practical experience as a React JS Developer Intern at SOV Technologies for four months, where I worked on developing dynamic and responsive web applications. This role sharpened my skills in front-end development, state management, and user interface design while allowing me to collaborate effectively in an agile team environment.

Currently, I am advancing my skill set by pursuing a Python Full Stack Developer course at IT Vedant, with a focus on back-end technologies.

I am committed to continuous learning and enjoy embracing challenges that drive my professional growth. Beyond my technical pursuits, I have a keen interest in sports, both indoor and outdoor, which keeps me active and engaged.

I am eager to contribute my technical expertise and creative problem-solving abilities to projects that have a meaningful impact.