

What are interview etiquettes? What are some things you should avoid during an interview?

Interview etiquettes are professional behaviors and manners you should exhibit during a job interview to create a positive impression.

Do's:

Dress Appropriately

Wear formal attire suitable for the company culture.

Be Punctual

Arrive 10-15 minutes early to show punctuality and interest.

Prepare Thoroughly

Research the company and role beforehand.

Be ready to discuss your skills, achievements, and how they align with the job.

Listen Attentively

Pay close attention to the interviewer's questions and respond thoughtfully.

Things to be avoided:

Being Late

Arriving late creates a poor first impression and questions your reliability.

Inappropriate Attire

Dressing too casually or inappropriately shows a lack of effort or awareness.

Negative Comments

Avoid speaking negatively about past employers, colleagues, or experiences.

Interrupting

Let the interviewer finish their questions or comments before responding.
